

Underrepresented Racial Minority Students in ATE: 2017

Lyssa Wilson Becho | October 2018

According to the results of the 2018 survey of ATE grantees,^a underrepresented racial minority students comprised 17 percent of all students in ATE-supported programs in 2017. Students who identify as American Indian, Alaska Native, Black, or African American are considered underrepresented racial minorities in STEM.^b By discipline, the percentage of students from racial minority groups ranged from 4 to 26 percent.

^a Ninety percent of 276 ATE grant recipients completed this survey. Of these 248 respondents, 141 reported that their ATE grants supported instructional programs; 124 provided information about the race of their students. Fifty-five projects reported 26,250 students with an unknown race. These students are not represented in the graph above.

^b See the NSF report Women, Minorities, and Persons with Disabilities in Science and Engineering: 2017. <http://bit.ly/urm-2017>

^c Numbers are rounded to the nearest ten.

^d Source: U.S. Census. www.census.gov/quickfacts/table/PST045214/00

This material is based upon work supported by the National Science Foundation under Grant No. 1600992. Any opinions, findings, and conclusions or recommendations expressed in this material are those of the author(s) and do not necessarily reflect the views of the National Science Foundation.